Extract from "An Act concerning Public Roads." Passed by the legislature of Virginia in the year 1786, and which is now obligatory in Alexandria County, District of Columbia.

Section III. The several courts shall also divide all the public roads into precincts, and as often as it shall be necessary appoint a Surveyor over every precinct, whose duty it shall be to superintend the road in his precinct, and see that the same be cleared and kept in good repair; which Surveyor shall continue in office until another shall be appointed by the said court in his stead.

IV. All male labouring persons, of the age of sixteen years or more, except such as are masters of two or more male laboring slaves, of the age of sixteen years or more, shall be appointed by the court to work on some public road: For every person so appointed, who, when required by the Surveyor placed over him, shall, without legal cause or disability, fail to attend, with proper tools for clearing the road, or shall refuse to work when there, or to find some other person equally able, to work in his room, the sum of seven shillings and six-pence for every day's offence shall be paid by himself, if he be a free man of full age, if an infant, then by his parent, guardian, or master, and if a slave or servant, than by his overseer, if he be under one, or otherwise, by his master.

V. The clerk of every county court shall, within ten days after the appointment of any Surveyor of a road, deliver a copy of the order to the sheriff of the county, under the penalty of fifteen shillings: and the sheriff, within fifteen days after the receipt of such order, shall deliver the same to the Surveyor, under the penalty of fifteen shillings. And each clerk shall moreover once in every year, fix up in the courthouse a list of the names and precincts of all the Surveyors of roads in his county, under the penalty of fifty shillings for every neglect.

VI. Every Surveyor of a road shall cause the same to be constantly kept well cleared and smoothed, and thirty feet wide at the least; and at the fork or crossing of every public road, shall cause to be erected and kept in repair from time to time, a stone, or otherwise an index on a post or tree, with plain inscriptions thereon, in large letters, directing to the most noted place to which each of the said roads shall lead, and may take stone or wood for that purpose from any adjoining land; and for the expence of setting up and inscribing such stones, posts, or indexes, and keeping them in repair, the Surveyor shall be reimbursed by the county court in their next succeeding levy; and where bridges and causeys are necessary the Surveyor shall cause them to be made, twelve feet broad at the least, convenient and safe, and shall keep the same in repair, and for that purpose may cut and take from the lands of any person adjoining, such, and so much timber, earth, or stone, as may be necessary, the same being first viewed and valued by two honest house-keepers appointed and sworn for that purpose, by a justice of the peace, unless the owner shall freely give such timber, stone, or earth, for that use; but where a road leads through a city or town, the Surveyor shall not take any timber, stone, or earth, from any lot within the town, without the permission of the owner, but shall take the same from the lands nigh or adjacent to the said town, where it will do the least injury to the proprietor; and where the assistance of wheel-carriages is necessary for making or repairing any causeys, any justice of peace may issue his warrant, under his hand and seal, for empowering the Surveyor to impress such necessary carriages, draught horses, or oxen, with their gear and driver, belonging to any person who, or their servants or slaves, are appointed to work on the road, and appointing two honest house keepers, who being sworn, shall value, by the day, the use of such carriages, draught horses, oxen, and driver, which valuation, with a certificate from the Surveyor how many days the said things were employed in the work, shall entitle the owner to an allowance for the same in the next county levy. And in the like manner shall the owner of timber, stone, or earth, taken for bridges or causeys, be entitled to the valuation thereof in the next county levy, upon a certificate from the two house-keepers who value the same. Every Surveyor of a road, who fails to do his duty as aforesaid, shall forfeit fifteen shillings for every offence.

VII. Where a bridge or causey shall be necessary, and the surveyor, with his assistants, cannot make or maintain the same, the court of the county are empowered and required to contract for the building and repairing such bridge or causey, and to levy the charge thereof in their county levy. And where such bridge or causey shall be necessary from one county to another, the court of each county shall join in the agreement for building and repairing the same, and the charge shall be defrayed by both counties, in proportion to the public tax or assessment paid by each. Upon every such contract or agreement, both bond and security shall be given by the undertaken, payable to the governor and his successors, for the use of the county or counties, as the case shall be, with condition for performing the same, & may be prosecuted at the costs, and for the benefit of the county or counties, or any person sustaining a loss by the breach thereof, as often as it shall happen, until the whole penalty of the bond shall be paid. And all such contracts made by county courts, or others appointed by them, shall be available and binding upon the justices and their successors, so as to entitle the undertaker to his stipulated reward in the county levy, or to a recovery thereof, with costs by action of debt, against the justices refusing to levy the same.

THURSDAY, JULY 22.

JOSHUA WINGATE, jun. Brigade Major and Inspector of the Militia in the District of Columbia.

From the Aurora of July 17.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE AURORA.

At the close of the session of congress which ended on the 1st of June, 1796, the secretary of war placed five hundred dollars in my hands, to be carried to Pittsburg, for the purpose of compensating certain persons engaged in tracing and detecting the progress and mischievous intrigues of emissaries, employed on the western frontiers and among the Indian tribes, by a foreign power, unfriendly to the United States. The money was advanced with the knowledge of the president and all the heads of department. Before the 1st of August, 1796, I paid over the whole sum to the persons thus engaged. The man principally active in this delicate business, exacted an absolute promise that his name should remain secret. The dependent circumstances and local situation of this man, forbid a disclosure of his name, had no such promise been made. The whole transaction passed within the knowledge of general Wayne, governor St. Clair, and H. H. Brackenridge, Esq. General Wayne, who was charged with the ultimate direction of this business, is no more, general St. Clair is ready to confirm the fact; and judge Brackenridge, who stands very high in the confidence of the present administration, by his letters, dated the 1st inst. authorises me thus publicly to own, that the sum of five hundred dollars was paid by me at the time, for the purpose, under the promise of secrecy, and with the knowledge of himself, of gen. Wayne, and governor St. Clair, as I have above stated—that the whole transaction was innocent, prudent, meritorious. The books of the accountant of the war department shew that the money was advanced at the time I have mentioned, and it cannot be pretended that any other public money was ever paid into my hands.

In the summer of 1799, the accountant wrote to me, that I was charged with the sum of five hundred dollars, and desired that I should send vouchers to close the account. When congress assembled in the December following, I gave his letter to one of the heads of department, all of whom having been in office when the money was advanced, perfectly knew the nature of the service rendered, and the stipulation of secrecy which for bad the filing of a receipt in the usual form. I therefore presume it was settled as a secret contingent expense of the war or indian department, under the appropriation for these purposes, by act of congress 1st June, 1796.

The public records of the accountant prove that this money came into my hands in June, 1796. The authority of judge Brackenridge will not be doubted, that I paid it away in July, 1796 long before the election or administration of Mr. Adams, and before my name was mentioned, or thought of as a candidate at the Pennsylvania election of 1799.

As to Mr. Lewis, who is said to have been an agent for the war department, and to have had public monies in his hands about the same time, I know nothing of the man, or his employment, or delinquency. I may have seen him, occasionally, in the public offices; but never had the slightest acquaintance or connection with him, at any time of my life. The assertion that Mr. Lewis's receipt and mine happened to be on the same day, proves, however, that the author of the calumny had access to the public books, and knew the real time that the money was first advanced in 1796; but chose to distort facts and dates, so as to connect it with 1799, and thereby give plausibility to his suspicion of electioneering corruption, as base in its nature as pitiful in its extent.

JAMES ROSS.

Pittsburgh, 9th July, 1802.

REMARKS.

"The whole of the transactions to which Mr. Ross alludes for which the secret service money mentioned was applied the Editor was possessed of before the receipt of Mr. Ross's letter, and an article was prepared on the subject, which is suppressed in order to give place to this letter."

Was ever a country insulted with such impudence and falsehood. Almost every Aurora for a long time, has endeavored to stigmatize Mr. Ross for making use of the public money for the purpose of forwarding his election. And now when the circumstances are made known, behold the editor knew of the transaction. Base and impudent beyond example. He tells us to be sure, not that he intended to give a correct statement, to the public, but that "an article was prepared on the subject." But unless Mr. Ross had come forward to confute the calumny, the author would have continued to propagate it, as long as his slanders were read and he rewarded. But this is among the arts of an able editor. When Duane charged the suppression of Wood's history on the federalists he knew very well the whole transaction, and that it was done by col. Burr. But this direct lie, and scandalous calumny, was only the art of an able editor, says the learned Mr. Cheetham. When Duane published the million of defalcations, he knew it was false but he could not support the character of an able editor, without such little lies. The degeneracy of the times has been a frequent theme of declamation for the politician and moralist. Americans must certainly have degenerated from their sires; or it could never happen that an illiterate & unprincipeled foreigner should be permitted to propagate the most atrocious falsehoods, against the reputation of the first characters in the country, impudently acknowledge them, and to be openly rewarded for the infamous conduct, by the administration. As for Duane, he is nothing—left to himself he would soon sink to his proper level or rise to that unenvied and deserved height, long since due to his merits. But what shall we think of those who encourage support and reward him. I blush for my country at the answer.

"It is to to be inquired, independent of the merits of the application, under what authority or law the money was issued—for no law authorises the war department to issue even a contingent expence but for an express and not a concealed service or rather it was issued without legal authority; for admitting, and we shall, admit in its fullest latitude, that the use to which the money was applied, would have been not only proper, but wise under the circumstances alledged, if legal.

"The expence was not only proper, but wise, under the circumstances alledged." It is but a few days since the secret service money to Ross; was a fine subject to excite the jealousies and alarm the suspicions of the people, against the administration & Mr. Ross; when Duane knew that Mr. Ross, at least, had acted not only proper but wise. Will any man believe that Duane was not acquainted long since with the whole transaction, both from Judge Brackenridge and the public officers? He now affects to turn off the attention, by considering the legality of the appropriation. This question has nothing to do with it as it effects Mr. Ross, who was a mere agent. Nor does it in the least justify Duane for the suspicions he endeavoured to excite against Mr. Ross's character.

"Of the transactions of Lewis, Mr. Ross has unnecessarily taken the trouble to acquit himself. But Mr. Ross has either misunderstood, or presumed more than was implied in the connection of Lewis's name with his. The circumstance of connection was wholly founded on the certificates for the secret service money to Mr. Ross, and the secret service money to Mr. Lewis, being both dated and issued on the same day and date. This was such a fact as, without explanation, must necessarily have placed the two issues in the same department on the same date, under a common suspicion."

This is a new discovery, Because the certificates of Mr. Ross and Mr. Lewis were dated and issued on the same day and from the same department, they must therefore be connected. If that were the case Mr. Duane, you will find very few to transact business in the same office and on the same day with you.

The remainder of his remarks is taken up in endeavouring to exculpate himself by abusing Mr. Ross. Duane may well be attached to this kind of logic, as it has frequently been serviceable to him; but the time may arrive, when the public will demand something more satisfactory.

Extract of a letter from Mr. J. Beeſly, Proprietor of the American Coffee Houſe, at Cape Francois, to the Editor of the New-York Mercantile Advertiſer, dated July 1, 1802.

"I have cloſed you a liſt of American veſſels now here, which are but few, though the markets are very high for many articles exported from America, ſuch as fiſh, beef, pork and lumber of all kinds. Every thing here is quiet, but the ſickneſs prevails among the troops and the inhabitants, inſomuch that from 30 to 40 die daily, and ſometimes more. Many Americans have fallen victims to the prevailing diſorder. Arrivals from France are frequent. On the 30th ult. came in the ſhip Melpomene, Johnſton in 37 days from London. We have but two or three veſſels direct from America for a month paſt; to what cauſe this is owing we know not. Liſt of American veſſels now in the port of Cape Francois, taken from Beeſley's Marine Regiſter, July 1, 1802.

Ships Suſan, M'Leller, Philadelphia; Atlantic, Doty, N. York; John Davis, Meſſervey, Charleſton; (cleared)—brigs Lucy, Blanchard, of Portland; Huron, Thomas, Philadelphia; Ann Brown, Norfolk; Mary Caroline, M'Donald, Portland; (cleared) Factor, Abrahams, New-York; Norfolk, Croſby, Charleſton; Fox Lincoln, ——; Reſolution, Brown, ——; Polly and Nancy, Bruſter, Philadelphia; Vinelia, Weſcott, Providence, R. I.; Two Friends, Moulton, Beverly; Sloop, Packet, Chandler, Portland;—Schooner determined Rover, Matthews, N. York; Brig Mary Bird, Weaver, Baltimore.

"N. B. An arrette of this day declares lumber free from duty, which muſt be an encouragement for importation; beſides it is now much in demand, ſo that the market cannot be ſtocked for this 6 or 8 months to come."

Head-quarters, C. Francois, 3d Meſſidor, the tenth year of the French republic, (23d June, 1802.)
Regulations both for the French and foreign trade.

French commerce

Art. I. Veſſels of French trade, coming from French ports, will be admitted only in the following ports, viz. Cape-Francois, Port-Republican, Aux Cayes, and Jacmel.

II. Merchandize or produce ariſing from French manufactures, or French ſoil, imported by French veſſels, ſhall not be ſubject to any duty of importation. Merchandize or produce, ſhipped from French ports, and entered in the manifeſt of the veſſel, ſhall be conſidered as French.

III. French veſſels may load in return with colonial produce; molaſſes, taffia, and rum, excepted.

IV. Colonial produce exported by French veſſels, ſhall be ſubjected to duties of export, conformably to the tariff annexed to the preſent regulations.

Foreign commerce.

V. It is permitted to foreign veſſels of 70 tons, and upwards, to enter the abovementioned four ports with or without a cargo.

VI. French or foreign merchandize, which they may import into the colony, ſhall be ſubjected to a duty of entry, agreeably to the aforeſaid tariff.

VII. Such colonial produce as they may export even molaſſes, taffia and rum, ſhall be ſubject to the duty of exportation fixed by the table of rates for ſtrangers.

General diſpoſitions

VIII. Every maſter of a French or foreign veſſel, arriving in the aforeſaid ports, ſhall be obliged, before any one lands from on board his veſſel, to call on the captain-general and the colonial prefect, in the town of their reſidence; and in the other ports, on the commandant general, and on the chief of the adminiſtration, or under prefect, in order to give an account of his voyage—the ſame day the maſter ſhall deliver, to the commandant of the place, a written and ſigned declaration, containing the liſt of paſſengers he has on board.

No paſſenger can land without a permit from the aforeſaid commander.

IX. The maſter, on the very day of his arrival, ſhall deliver all the letters and packages he may have under his care, to the poſt-maſter, from whom he will receive a diſcharge.

X. The maſters of French and foreign veſſels ſhall, on the day of their arrival in the aforeſaid ports, deliver to the collector the invoice of his cargo—all merchandize not entered in the invoice, and which ſhall be found on board at the time of the ſearch, ſhall be confiſcated for the benefit of the republic.

XI. Every maſter of a foreign veſſel, ſhall be obliged to conſign his cargo to a reſiding merchant, who ſhall perſonally be reſponſible for the duties of import and export, and for whatever fraud that may be committed by the maſters of veſſels to them conſigned.

XII. No French or foreign veſſels ſhall clear out of theſe ports, until after the maſter ſhall have preſented to the harbor maſter the collector's certificate, ſhewing that the duties have been duly paid, and the poſt-maſter's certificate, announcing that he has withdrawn his letter-bag, after depoſiting it eight days before his departure.

XII. Every French or foreign veſſel, which ſhall be found by the veſſels of the French republic, lying at an anchor in one of the ports not above mentioned, or in any bay, creek, or ſmall bite along the coaſt, or under ſail at a ſhorter diſtance than 5 miles from the ſhore, and intercourſing with the land, ſhall be arreſted by the ſhips cruiſing on that ſtation, and carried in one of the aforeſaid ports; that the captain general, upon the report of the colonial prefect, may pronounce the confiſcation of the hull and cargo.

The veſſels that ſhall have made the capture, ſhall be entitled to a third of the value of the veſſel and cargo ſo confiſcated, &c. &c.

Ten Dollars Reward.

Ran away from the ſubſcriber living in Stafford County, on Tueſday, the 6th inſtant, a likely negro man, named GEORGE, of a dark complexion, about Twenty-Six years of age, by trade a blackſmith. He is about Six feet high, ſtutters very much, and is fond of liquor, when intoxicated he is very impudent and quarrelſome. As he went away without the leaſt provocation, he will no doubt endeavour to paſs as a freeman, and I expect he has obtained a paſs for that purpoſe. When he went away, he wore a bath coating cloth coat, but this as well as his name he will probably change.

The above reward, and all reaſonable expences will be paid, if taken in Virginia, and Twenty Dollars if taken in Maryland, to any perſon who will deliver him to me in Stafford county, or ſecure him in any jail or bridewell, ſo that I get him again. I think it probable he may be lurking about Alexandria or Colcheſter, having lived at the latter place ſome time ago.
